CONSTITUTIONAL COMMISSION

Institution Specification No. 011

THE FAMILY AND THE CITIZEN

Working Draft 1.0

STATUS

The Family and the Citizen are recognised by the Federal Constitution as the foundational social institutions of the Alliance.

The Constitution exists to protect them.

Government exists to serve them.

The Alliance exists to preserve the conditions in which they may flourish.

1. PURPOSE

The Family is the first community.

The Citizen is the first bearer of constitutional responsibility.

Every constitutional institution ultimately exists for their benefit.

Without Families there are no Communities.

Without Communities there are no States.

Without States there is no Alliance.

---

2. THE CITIZEN

Citizens are not subjects of Government.

They are participants in constitutional civilisation.

Every Citizen possesses constitutional rights.

Every Citizen also bears constitutional responsibilities.

Freedom and responsibility shall always exist together.

3. THE FAMILY

The Family is recognised as the primary community in which children are nurtured, values are transmitted, and civic responsibility is first learned.

The Constitution shall protect the integrity of the Family while recognising that families take different lawful forms and circumstances within society.

Government shall support Families without unnecessarily replacing their responsibilities.

4. RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE CITIZEN

Every Citizen should strive to:

Respect the Constitution.

Respect the rights of others.

Contribute productively to society.

Care for the vulnerable.

Protect public property.

Participate in civic life.

Promote peace within the Community.

Exercise freedom responsibly.

5. RIGHTS OF THE CITIZEN

Every Citizen shall enjoy the constitutional rights guaranteed by the Federal Constitution.

Those rights shall be protected equally by every institution of the Alliance.

No office bearer shall stand above the constitutional rights of the People.

---

6. THE PRINCIPLE OF STEWARDSHIP

Citizens inherit the Alliance from previous generations.

They hold it in Constitutional Trust for those who follow.

Citizens are therefore not merely beneficiaries of the Constitution.

They are its future custodians.

7. CONSTITUTIONAL PRINCIPLE

The strength of the Alliance shall always be measured not by the power of its Government, but by the character of its People.
